STROUD FREEDOM GROUP

WHO WE ARE: We are a local grouping with a rich diversity of views and personalities, who all hold as sacred the human freedoms of thought, speech and assembly. We champion a rich and diverse culture – not one in which narrow-minded “political correctness” rules; and we welcome people disagreeing with us in a spirit of good faith and mutual respect for difference.

LOVE AND TRUTH: These are the core defining values which we all stand behind; our love of Truth and the truth of Love inform everything we do. In common with all people, we are not perfect, but we strive to be our best according to these defining values. It is unavoidable that fearless truth-seekers will ruffle the feathers of those who would rather that ordinary people did not have easy access to reliable information about how our world functions, and who would rather police and censor that access to information themselves.

WHO WE ARE NOT:

- We do not believe that we know better than you what, within the law, you should read or hear. We trust sovereign people to make those decisions for themselves, and we do not wish to infantilise people by presuming to make such decisions for them.
- Far from being the “far-right extremists” that populate the fantasy-worlds of our detractors, we come from the political left, centre, right, and from “no politics”. We warmly welcome all free-thinking sovereign people concerned with freedom and truth. We have no time for some of the sanctimonious, politically “correct” virtue signalling that all of us have witnessed in recent years!
- We emphatically do not endorse or practise judgementalism or hate-mongering

“To encourage and maintain diversity is a part of the ethical imperative of participating in the riches of creation. In the very idea of participation are contained ethical signposts concerning how we should treat all other forms of life. They are part of the family, part of ourselves.” Henryk Skolimowski, 1994
