

Vaxxed vs Unvaxxed: following the TRUE science for a health revolution

Richard House

I first wrote about mass vaccination over two decades ago.¹ I wear the “anti-vaxxer” appellation with pride, as I’ve long believed that the genuine, uncaptured science will eventually reveal beyond any equivocation that living a non-vaccine life is a healthier option by far than robotically following the ever-burgeoning vaccine schedules of the Pharmaceutical Industrial Complex. “Vaccine-mindedness” has been relentlessly drilled into the psyches of billions of people going back decades, with baseless assertions of scientificity and their associated Zombie-science claims. Yet as Dr Joseph Mercola recently wrote, “Anyone who claims vaccines have saved more lives by preventing disease than they’ve destroyed through side-effects is simply guessing and making assumptions. There’s no scientific data to back that up.”

Last year I transcribed two excellent interviews on the question of vaxxed vs unvaxxed health outcomes by vaccine researchers Dr Brian Hooker and Neil Z. Miller,² and discovered a great 15-minute film on the issue.³ I’m thrilled that a new book is soon to come out, authored by Robert F. Kennedy Jr and Brian Hooker – *Vax vs Unvax*⁴ – which promises to hammer a massive nail into the coffin-lid of Big Pharma’s mass vaccination trance-induction that has dominated mainstream medicine for so long.

As early as 2020, there already existed three major research studies that showed massively better health outcomes for the unvaccinated when compared with those who’d received the normal vaccine schedules.⁵ These studies merely confirmed what principled and informed “anti-vaxxers” had been saying for years.⁶ So it’s very exciting that RFK Jr and Dr Hooker have now taken the science to a quite new level, with unequivocal scientific evidence on the superiority of a vaccine-free lifestyle.

Not that we should be holding our breath! In 2009, psychology professor Irving Kirsch published a groundbreaking book⁷ which showed beyond doubt that except in a very small range of severe cases, anti-depressant medication is no more effective than placebo. In any conceivable rational, evidence-based world, this book’s revolutionary findings should have brought an end to the medical use and prescription of anti-depressants – but did they? Errr – emphatically not, with all the evidence showing that anti-depressant usage is actually soaring.⁸ So much for much-vaunted “evidence-based medicine”! What this illustrates all too starkly, of course, is that Big Pharma has the medical world by the throat, and has mesmerised medical consumers (i.e. us) into unthinkingly believing that a psycho-active pill is the effective treatment for “depression” – even when the scientific evidence conclusively shows that it isn’t, and notwithstanding excellent corroborating studies by authorities like Dr James Davies.⁹

This cautionary tale, then, should leave us under no illusion that the publication of Kennedy and Hooker’s new book will of itself bring an end to global mass vaccination. Rather, it is independent publications like this newspaper that will be vital in raising grass-roots awareness amongst medical consumers, and so helping to bring about this urgently needed health transformation.

I was thrilled when Brian Hooker announced their new book Vax–Unvax in an exclusive interview in Jonathan Otto’s recent docu-series “Disease in Reverse” (June 2023).¹⁰ In that interview, as well as giving chapter and verse on the scarcely believable corruption in the world of vaccine research and the fraudulent suppression of inconvenient research findings, Hooker spoke of how “unvaccinated children have less ear infections, they have less pneumonia, have less developmental delays, have less asthma, have less gastrointestinal issues, have less ADD and ADHD, neurological issues in general, their mortality rates are lower. And all of this information, the CDC and the Pharmaceutical Complex are trying to suppress.” He describes how the book has bright, easy-to-read graphics “where someone could pick it up with a non-scientific background, read about the study [in question], and could see directly how vaccinated individuals do compared to unvaccinated”.

We are surely on the verge of a momentous and decisive paradigm shift in medicine and healthy living.¹¹ A post-pharma world is urgently beckoning, and truthers and those open to genuinely objective, uncaptured science will lead the way into this new world, beyond the ruthless hegemony of a Pharmaceutical Industrial Complex drunk on its own unaccountable power and buttressed by the captured science which studies like Vax-Unvax are courageously exposing. Please, please buy this momentous new book - let's tell the whole world about it!
